MARTIAL LAW IN TULSA TIGHTENS AFTER LOOTINGS

GUARDIANS TRY SAFE PROTECTION

The State Charged with Indictment for Heist of Range

Martial law which had been declared after a day of rioting may be tightened further, state officials say, to consider stopping night marauding in the city.

A majority of counties around Tulsa have been declared "crime areas" by the state, and these areas are subject to martial law.

The anti-loot law, which was declared earlier in the week, was extended to include night marauding.

The rioting began late Sunday night when a carload of men, including a city policeman, was shot to death.

Mourners, who were held in the city, were shot to death in the rioting.

State officials are said to be considering increasing the number of state troopers in the city.

The rioting is said to have been started by a group of men, who were said to be in the city to search for those responsible for the death of a man who was found dead in a car early Sunday morning.
